SEEK TROPHIES OF THE WAR

Curio Dealers Willing to Pay High Prices for Mementoes, Which They Hope to Sell.

Curio dealers from England and from the continent are reported to be in the vicinity of the battlefields in northern France endeavoring to buy trophies of the war, which they hope in time may be valuable. They find, it is said, some difficulty in driving bargains. Amateurs who have come into possession of trophies hold them for high prices or will not sell on any consideration. It is recalled that after the American Civil war came to an end a bookseller in the Bermudas, when the cargoes of the blockade runners in the harbor of Hamilton were sold at auction, bought a number of package cases without the least knowledge of their contents. Among these were several boxes of brass buttons consigned to the Confederate army for use on soldiers' uniforms. Some twenty years later tourists discovered these old Confederate buttons. A New York dealer made a high bid for the entire supply. This bid was refused, and these buttons for which in the war-torn years a small fraction of a cent was paid, have been selling at 75 cents and $1 each.

A lady doctor writes:

"I began to use Postum 8 years ago; not because I wanted to, but because coffee, which I dearly loved, made my nights long, weary periods to be dreaded and unfitting me for business during the day.

'On advice of a friend, I first tried Postum, making it carefully as suggested on the package. As I had always used 'cream and no sugar,' I mixed my Postum so. It looked good, was clear and fragrant, and it was a pleasure to see the cream color it as my Kentucky friend always wanted her coffee to look. Tike a new saddle.

Then I tasted it critically, for I had tried many 'substitutes' for coffee. I was pleased, yes, satisfied with my Postum in taste and effect, and am yet being a constant user of it all these

I continually assure my friends and acquaintances that they will like Pos-tum in place of coffee, and receive benefit from its use. I have gained weight, can sleep and am not nerv-

MAKE PASTURES A FEATURE

Variety of Grasses Should Be Selected to Conform to Soil Conditions Use a Little Thought.

We often hear people say that they believe dairying hight do pretty well in certain neighborhoods if they only had pastures. The idea these people intend to convey is generally that all the land is cropped and that there is no low land too wet or high land too rough to crop. In other words, these good people do not know what a pas-They have misinterpreted the Lord's intentions when he made land too boggy or tee hilly for cultivation:

An ideal pasture should contain number of grasses and clovers so that in its turn some one of those grasses clovers is coming to its best each week during the pasture aeason, writes Ben R. Eldridge in Utah Farmer. The variety of grasses planted in a pasture should also be selected so that if there is a variety of soils or of soil conditions in the pasture there will be some variety of grass especially adapted to each variety or condition of the soil.

Some grasses, for instance, provide excellent feed in the spring. They lie dormant in the warmer weather of summer and make another very excelgrowth in the fall, and these grasses are excellent in their way, but should be planted with other varieties that are dought resistant and grow fairly well during midsummer. Some grasses do well on drained soil; others require low land, where the soil is continually damp and where the surface water is at a shallow depth below the ground level. Laying off permanent pastures the ground should be built up; that is, well ferti-lized, laid off if it is to be irrigated so that the greatest amount of good can be gained when water is applied.

Then, if a proper variety of grasses is selected, a sod can be produced that will stand a wonderful amount of tramping and for many years furnish feed for several animals to the acre during four to five months of the year. That is what a pasture really is. Our swamp lands and our rocky hillsides are misnamed, when we call them

I don't think it's much to the credit of some of us who call places pastures that have been used for forty years and never known the planting of a single seed from the hand of the owner. We can have most excellent pas tures if we only use a little thought and make them.

A few acres of good, well-made pas ture will furnish more and better feed-ing than can be gathered from a quarter section of much of the ground that we dignify in its unbroken state by the name of "pasture." There are many places where there is a fair natural sod, but is very seldom those places cannot be immensely improved by re-enforcing the native grasses by a few seasonable seedings of domestic

Why leave these things all to the Lord? He has done a great deal for us. Let us do our share and make some pastures.

Moisture for Hatching.

The amount of moisture required in the hatching of eggs in our low altitudes is so little that a saucer containing water and a sponge set in the saucer to absorb the water and make the air humid is all that is necessary. If the incubator is set in a cellar good hatches, in fact the best, are often made without any more moisture given than the air of a cellar. Even a base-ment room will often supply enough.

Sick Women

Is it possible there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, which proves beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other one medicine in the world?

We have published in the newspapers of the United States more genuine testimonial letters than have ever been published in the interest of any other medicine for women and every year we publish many new testimonials, all gen-uine and true. Here are three never before published:

From Mrs. S. T. Richmond, Providence, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—"For the benefit of women who suffer as I have done I wish to state what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I did some heavy lifting and the doctor said it caused a displacement. I have always been weak and I overworked after my baby was born and inflammation set in, then nervous prostration, from which I did not recover until I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The Compound is my best friend and when I hear of a woman with troubles like mine I try to induce her to take your medicine."—Mrs. S. T. RICHMOND, 84 Progress Avenue, Providence, R.I.

From Mrs. Maria Irwin, Peru, N.Y.

PERU, N.Y.—"Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was very irregular and had much pain. I had lost three children, and felt worn out s!! the time. This splendid medicine helped me as nothing else had done, and I am thankful every day that I took it."—Mrs. Maria Irwin, R.F.D. 1, Peru, N.Y.

From Mrs. Jane D. Duncan, W. Quincy, Mass.

South Quincy, Mass.—"The doctor said that I had organic trouble and he doctored me for a long time and I did not get any relief. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and I tried it and found relief before I had finished the first bottle. I continued taking it all through middle life and am now a strong, healthy woman and earn my own living."—Mrs. Jane D. Duncan, Forest Avenue, West Quincy, Mass.
